Dear Sir, Madam (to whom it concerns),

I understood that you need clarity regarding service, continued support, etc. in the event of the possible loss of CleanAirNederland.com as a Dutch representative.

An understandable question that I am happy to answer. Njord Clean Air is an international company that works with its own representatives as well as agents. This in various European countries. We do not only want these representatives to represent our product during sales, but also to provide service with local partners. This is due to distances, associated costs and language barriers. CleanAirNederland.com does this for us in the Netherlands and Flanders together with a local partner.

Should CleanAirNederland stop working for whatever reason, we at Njord will immediately switch and take over all service and support together with his current service partner or our own service team.

We stand by our product and want to provide our customers (by ourselves or represented by a partner) with not only reliable and well-functioning air purifiers but also with good service and support.

Njord has a solid financial situation and will for sure be there in the long term future.

With Best regards,

Njord Clean Air AB
